Foreign purchasers of American steel rails can buy them for $7.50 a ton less than the American purchaser can. This is one of the fine features of protection.

Editor Watterson says he will retire to the ranks now and cease trying to lead people who wouldn't be led his way. There are a good many obstinate people in Kentucky.

A Chicago man has shipped 220 dogs to the Klondike country. If this thing goes on there will be a rise in the Chicago sausage market, when the people forgot the Luetgert incident.

A New York woman wants $10,000 from a railroad for spoiling her temper. She fell from a train and got so mad that she has been cross ever since, but used to be quite angelic.

There will be a big rush to the Klondike country in the Spring. It is said that one ship company in San Francisco has already booked 80,000 people, who are taking time by the forelock to secure passage.

A Judge in the Indian Territory is doing his best to knock out the divorce business in his bailiwick, by ruling that notices of application printed in the newspapers only shall not count, but that the party from whom the divorce is sought must be personally notified of the application. Sensible Judge.

There is a good deal of talk about a national quarantine in the case of imported diseases. There should be some uniformity in quarantining in such cases, and thus, if possible, avoid the disgraceful shot-gun quarantines, and the many discreditable results of the present system when every locality looks out for itself, and many do it in a way that reflects little credit on them.

The friends of Mrs. Maybrick have not yet abandoned the hope of seeing her released from prison in England, where she has been confined since 1889, when she was on the flimsiest kind of evidence convicted of murdering her husband, a confirmed arsenic user, by giving him arsenic. She admitted that she bought arsenic and gave it to him, but at his direction as she had often done, and on this admission, with a prejudiced judge on the bench, she was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. But her sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life.

Gen. Blanco, who has succeeded Weyler, is not a joker, but this might be suspected when he said that "Spain has raised Cuba to the highest level of prosperity any country ever attained." This will be news to the Cubans and to a large number of people outside of Cuba, who have been under the impression that about the only things Spain ever raised in Cuba were taxes and hades.

A French inventor has invented a rubber oyster, but it will not stretch a bit more than the church fair stew kind.

Lewis Morrison's Repertoire.

Ever since it was announced that Mr. Lewis Morrison, the eminent actor, would appear at the Opera House on the evening of the 29th inst., theatre-goers of this city have been constantly inquiring what play Mr. Morrison will present here. Mr. Morrison's repertoire includes "The Master of the Ceremonies," a dramatization of George Manville Fenn's famous novel; "Frederick the Great," an historical comedy based on incidents of the later years of the grand old Emperor; Bulwer-Lytton's masterpiece, "Richelieu," in which character Mr. Morrison has no peer on the English-speaking stage, and "Faust," in which play as Mephisto Mr. Morrison has thrilled and entertained the entire American people.

The play which Mr. Morrison will present in this city will be left to the choice of the theatre-goers. A coupon, upon which the selection can be marked, will be issued to the theatre-goers.

Tried to Commit Suicide.

Kate Smith, a colored woman living in the vicinity of Fourth and Church streets, was found in an unconscious condition this morning about 12 30 o'clock on the wharf at the foot of Castle street. From two laudanum bottles found near her it was supposed that she had tried to commit suicide by swallowing laudanum. The police authorities were notified and an officer sent to bring the woman to the City Hall where the proper medical attention was rendered by Dr. W. D. McMillan, Superintendent of Health.

She claimed to have bought 15 cents worth of laudanum and to have taken it all. There were two bottles and if the woman told the truth about the quantity that was in each, she must have swallowed at least an ounce. Some disappointment in an affair of the heart seems to have prompted the rash act. At last accounts she seemed to be likely to recover.

About Cotton Receipts.

The receipts of cotton here remain uniformly larger than on the corresponding dates of last year. The figures yesterday were 3,056 bales, against 1,579 bales for the same day of last year. The consolidated port receipts yesterday were 66,759 bales, against 37,960 for the corresponding day of 1896. These figures seem to justify the opinion that the crop this year will certainly be larger than it was last year.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Two Attractions This Week—"Georgia Minstrels" and "McFee's Matrimonial Bureau."

Two attractions on the "laugh a second order" are offered by the management of the Opera House this week.

TUESDAY EVENING

Richard and Pringle's Georgia Minstrels are booked to appear, and for this performance the entire lower floor of the Opera House will be reserved for white people.

The show this year is really a combination of Richard and Pringle's Georgia Minstrels and Rusco and Holland's Operatic Minstrels, and includes Billy Kersands and forty other stars, besides two bands of music.

In speaking of the performance the Richmond Times of last Friday says:

The managers and owners of the Georgia Negro Minstrels can leave the city this morning carrying snugly stored in their grips the endorsement of their company by local theatre-goers and some of their currency, too. They were all negroes, fine specimens of their race, with all the subtle humor and musical melody that is so characteristic of them fully developed, and the performance they gave at the Academy last evening can bear comparison with the work of many kindred organizations.

The first part is excellent, and introduced many novel dances, catchy songs, and Billy Kersands, an original exponent of his race.

In the olio are many good specialties, among them the slack-wire walking of Allie Brown, that was quite sensational. The programme concluded with a sketch entitled "Mr. Johnson, Turn Me Loose."

Prices 25, 50 and 75 cents. Seats will be placed on sale at Gerken's to-morrow morning.

THE ATTRACTION WEDNESDAY NIGHT will be "McFee's Matrimonial Bureau," which is a laugh-producing Irish comedy; brim full of genuine Irish wit and humor, funny situations and up-to-date ideas.

The Nashville (Tenn.) Daily Sun of October 19th last, says:

"McFee's Matrimonial Bureau" was the bill at the Vendome last evening and is beyond doubt one of the best and funniest Irish musical comedies seen in years. The production has been materially changed since last season, having been rewritten and brightened throughout, which places it at the top of the ladder as a fun producer. There are two members of the cast who are most pleasantly remembered as the leading people when the attraction was presented here last season.

Yes, it was like meeting old friends to hear the sweet vocal music from Miss Lillian Murray Knott and watch the original and amusing antics of Chelso D. Peruchi as Harry Snapper, for they sustained well the good impression which they left behind on their former appearance. Miss Knott, aside from possessing a magnificently cultivated yet sweet voice, has the advantage of an attractive stage presence.

The dancing of the two magnets as Mattie Nay and Helen Blazes was in keeping with their names and elicited a liberal share of the approval of the audience. Gibon and Allen, the two funny Irishmen, caught the audience from the start, keeping them in a continual roar of mirth. The choruses were full and strong.

Seats on sale at Gerken's, commencing Tuesday morning.

THE TORPEDO BOATS

Passed Down the River Early Yesterday Morning.

The torpedo boats left yesterday morning about 6.30 o'clock—too early for a good many people who wanted to see them steam down the river. There wouldn't have been an opportunity to see the vessels at their speeding time anyway as, on account of the windings of the channel, it was not considered safe to run the boats faster than ten or twelve knots an hour.

Flagship Dupont took the lead yesterday morning, and at a signal from her whistle one of the smaller boats followed; three blasts from the whistle of the second when she had gotten within a short distance of the Dupont, giving the signal for the third and last to follow. In this order the Dupont, Ericsson and Cushing—the beginning of what, from present indications, will be some day one of the strongest fighting navies in the world—moved swiftly down the stream.

In Aid of the Catherine Kennedy Home.

The public of Wilmington will next Tuesday evening have offered them for their patronage and pleasure a select concert, the proceeds derived from which will be devoted in aiding a noble charity, which the community feels proud of—the Catherine Kennedy Home. The entertainment will be given in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the programme will be a rare and delightful one, including vocal selections, instrumental renditions and recitations by Wilmington's best talent. The admission will be twenty-five cents. The ladies who have the arranging of this pleasant affair in charge are Mrs. Phil, Pearsall, Mrs. A. M. Waddell, Mrs. Andrew Howell, Jr., and Miss Annie Spruat.

Mr. Blake's New Peanut-Parcher.

Mr. A. S. Blake, the peanut dealer, has perfected a machine for roasting peanuts that is very ingenious. He roasts the nuts in quantities of from two to five bushels and the beauty about the process is that every pea is roasted exactly alike, that is, none are burned and none are too raw. There is an arrangement by which the peas can be tried at different stages of the parching. Mr. Blake is prepared to furnish the trade with an excellent variety of peanuts already nicely roasted. See his ad.

Stockholders' Meetings.

Mr. James F. Post, Jr., Secretary, gives notice of the annual meetings of the stockholders of the W. & W., W., C. & A. and W. & N. Railroads on November 17th. All the meetings will be held at the office of the company. The 62nd annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company will be held at 12 o'clock m.; the stockholders of the W., C. & A. Railroad will meet at 12.30 p. m., and of the W. & N. Railroad at 1.00 p. m.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

The Roanoke Chemical Company, of Roanoke, Va., Have Removed Their Factory to This City.

Wilmington's known advantages as a distributing point have succeeded in drawing within its borders another manufacturing concern—a fact which the many who realize the benefit of factories to a town hail with pleasure. The Roanoke Chemical Company have decided to change their headquarters from Roanoke, Va., to Wilmington, and a part of the machinery is already on the ground.

Mr. G. C. Jones, the secretary and treasurer of the company, arrived here last evening, accompanied by his wife and child and his brother, Mr. E. M. Jones, the Company's chemist. Mr. B. A Jones, the president of the Company, will follow in a short while.

The manufacturing plant will require two buildings, one of which, that until recently occupied by the Wilmington, Newbern and Norfolk Railroad Company, has already been secured. The factory proper will be in this building and the other will be for the manufacture of cans, which will be turned out in quantities sufficient to supply the demands of other baking powder concerns besides the Roanoke. The machinery for the manufacture of cans has already arrived and will be put in place as soon as a suitable building is secured. The rest of the machinery has not been brought from Roanoke, where the manufacturing will not cease until everything is in readiness to brgin here.

The factory will be running here by December 1st, and will be the means of employment to 60 or 75 hands, besides 10 or 12 travelling salesmen.

The output will be determined by the demand—it can be made practically unlimited. "Free Silver" baking powder and "Hoe Cake" cooking soda are the products of the company. Both of these are popular brands and are already sold in as many as 14 States.

THE CITY MARKETS.

Usual Variety of Edibles—Poultry, Fruit, Oysters, Fish, Meats and Vegetables.

The city markets presented the usual variety of edibles yesterday, with a few additions in meats and poultry in the way of squirrels, opossums and ducks. There was quite a good assortment of fish and plenty of clams, shrimp and oysters. Vegetables also could be had in abundance. Eggs sold at 16⅔ to 18 cents per dozen. Prices of other articles were as follows:

REV. ROBT. STRANGE, D. D.

Declined the Call to Christ Church, Norfolk, Va.—An Announcement That Will Give Great Pleasure to Many in Wilmington.

Rev. Robt. Strange, D. D., rector of St. James' Episcopal church, this city, has decided not to accept the call to the rectorship of Christ church, Norfolk, Va., and a letter of declination was mailed by Dr. Strange yesterday morning to the vestry of that church.

Love for his people, mingled with a feeling that he could accomplish greater good by remaining in Wilmington, forced Dr. Strange to decline the rectorship offered, and it is needless to say that this decision not only greatly pleases the members of St. James' church, but the entire community as well; for Dr. Strange is one of the ablest ministers of the gospel in this city, and is a man who has accomplished much good, especially among the young folks, over whom he has great and beneficial influence. It was certainly with a feeling of pleasure that the STAR heard of Dr. Strange's decision.

FOOT BALL NEXT FRIDAY.

The First Game of the Season to be Played by Wilmington with Greensboro at Hilton Park.

On Friday, November 19th, at Hilton Park, will be played the first game of foot ball of the season, and on this day the Wilmington boys expect to defeat the Greensboro Athletic Association foot ball team, which is one of the strongest in the State.

The Wilmington team has been practicing, hard at work, for about a month and is now in excellent trim and confident of defeating the Greensboro team.

The Wilmington people probably will see some fine foot ball playing this season, as the manager of the home team is arranging games with Charlotte, Fayetteville, Columbia, High Point and Wilson, and it is hoped these games will be liberally patronized, as the boys have gone to considerable expense in getting them up.

With King, Savage and Terry (a line which cannot be broken), it is certain that the Wilmington team will be hard to defeat.

The players are most urgently requested to be at all the practices this week. Some important plays will be taught them by Capt. Green, and it is necessary that each and every member be on hand.

The Wilmington Light Infantry has extended to Col. Jno. F. Bruton, of Wilson, Second Regiment, State Guard, an invitation to visit the city Tuesday as the guest of the company. With the W. L. I. boys Col. Royster is a great favorite.

Farewell Performance of the Woodward-Warren Company.

Notwithstanding the fact it was Saturday night, "Our Strategist" was presented to a very large house. The play is full of fun from start to finish, with the old favorite, Mr. Woodward, in the lead. The Woodward-Warren Company closed a very successful week. Mr. Woodward has a very strong company of its kind, and in choosing his cast has made good selections. The combination of Mr. Woodward and his charming little wife, Miss Warren, is hard to beat.

U. S. Commissioner's Court.

Ed. Love, colored, was arraigned before United States Commissioner R. H. Bunting yesterday, charged with retailing liquor without a license, but was adjudged not guilty and discharged. Love is from Robeson county and came to this city last week as a witness in the United States District Court in a case against a person charged with retailing liquor without a license, and while in attendance upon the court was arrested by U. S. Deputy Marshal J. M. Pugh.

The North Carolina Presbyterian has been purchased by a joint stock company of Charlotte gentlemen, who will move the paper to Charlotte and publish it, probably under the name of the Carolina Presbyterian, representing both States. WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, NOV. 7, 1897

AND JIM WRIT 'EM A LETTER.

Some of Governor Russell's "savages" met in Raleigh Tuesday night to protest against the cold shoulder that has been given the negroes in this State by the combination party in power and to organize a Republican League, both of which they did.

There were about one hundred delegates present and also considerable racket, growing out of divergence of views of a few of the "delegates" and pointed remarks by some of them. The principal speech-maker was Rev. —— Leak, who talked some pretty plain talk and sensible talk, too, while John Williamson furnished the material for the racket. There were speeches also by Scotland Harris, of Halifax, and by E. A. Johnson, of Wake, who was made Chairman, both of whom spoke about the manner in which the negroes had been trifled with, how promises made to them before the election had been broken, and pointed to the fact that out of all the patronage of the party in the State all the negroes got was a measly little billet in the fertilizer division of the Agricultural Department, while white Republicans and white Pops, who couldn't have gotten anything without negro votes, got all the rest.

The result of the convention, which was in session four hours, was the adoption of a set of resolutions setting forth the grievances and the demands of the negro voters of the State, denouncing Governor Russell for favoring the leasing out of the penitentiary convicts, the issuing of an address to the colored voters urging them to vote for no man for office who would not pledge himself to a fair divide with the negroes and to favor giving the negroes as much recognition as white men in the matter of patronage, merit and competency to be the tests and not color. As a guarantee (not necessarily for publication) of good faith the aforesaid candidates must put these pledges in writing, so that they can't go back on them and say after the election that they didn't say it. This was a very happy thought, in view of the number of times the negroes have been fooled by verbal promises.

The next thing in order was the organization of the Lincoln League, the gates to which they generously left open to any of their white Republican friends who desired to come in, provided they subscribed to the declarations set forth in the resolutions adopted and address issued and agreed to stand by the organization, obey its rules and regulations, and not put on any airs on account of their white skins or straight hair.

This would be interesting if this was the first time there had been any kicking of this kind, or any attempt at organization to secure to the colored voters such recognition in the distribution of the spoils as their services to the party entitled them to, and if all such attempts heretofore had not proved dismal failures. It will be remembered what a mighty and far-reaching kick the "savages" gave when Daniel L. Russell was nominated for Governor, how many of them emphatically declared, and sometimes with cuss words, that they would see any man who had so spat upon and maligned their race as Russell had as far in the region where the temperature never falls below white heat as an asbestos pigeon would fly in a century before they would vote for him for Governor or for anything else, and before the campaign got good warm they were whooping the boys up for him and gave him a vote that surprised him and them too, for they didn't think they could whoop up their fellows anything like as well as they did. And this will be about the pan-out of this convention and this Lincoln League. They will make speeches, promises and threats and when the election time comes around they will see only a Democratic party on one side of the line and a Republican party on the other, and they will forget all about their speeches, promises and threats and will tumble into the Republican lines as usual and go to whooping it up and yelling for the white bosses as if they were paid for it and were doing their level best to earn their money.

That's what they, with very few exceptions, have been doing ever since they began to vote and that is what they will continue to do until they have honest men enough in their ranks to stand squarely up to them and not sell themselves and their followers for promises or for petty places. A few men like Jim Young who has been living on them for years and has grown fat and saucy, will work to disorganize, and throw suspicion on the motives of those who kick against being ignored and used as saddle horses for white men, who hobnob with them up to the day of election and then turn their backs on them, to ride into office on. They are an easily humbugged race and their black and white leaders both know that and act accordingly. They have been doing it for thirty years, and yet the eyes of the colored sovereigns have not been fully opened.

An illustration of this was furnished when in that Raleigh convention a letter was read from James E. Boyd, who is now in Washington, promising more Federal patronage to the negroes of North Carolina, and a resolution was adopted thanking Boyd for the interest he had shown in the meeting by writing that letter. If they knew Jim Boyd as well as they ought to know him they would know it he would never have written such a letter if that kick wasn't on, and they would know that when he wrote that he hadn't the remotest idea of turning his hand over or turning on his heel to secure anything more for the negroes of North Carolina than they have now. Jim never did have much use for a darkey after he got his vote, and he never made many bones in saying it, either, and it isn't likely that his admiration for or his interest in the race has increased since he has gone to Washington and secured that soft snap for himself. In addition to this Jim hasn't any patronage to dole out. He is simply pulling the wool further down over their eyes, as the white bosses have been doing all along, and they were so far from seeing it that this convention of kickers passed a resolution thanking him for his letter. Jim knows them better than they know him, or know themselves.

MINOR MENTION.

The other day, in remarking in connection with some interrogative surprise expressed by the Chatham Record on the failure of the Caucasian to criticise Governor Russell's reasons for accepting passes from the railroads, we didn't shoot very wide of the bull's eye when we said the reason probably was that Senator Butler had a pocketful of passes himself. And he has, and he also has the monumental cheek to score the railroads for issuing passes, and to criticise others for accepting and travelling on them. But it isn't Senator Butler who carries the pocketful of passes; it is Editor Butler. When he wants to travel he pulls off his Senatorial coat as it were and puts on the editorial coat, which contains the pocketful of passes. This is quite a nice and convenient arrangement, and lets Mr. Butler down on a somewhat more businesslike if not less ridiculous way than the "they-all-do it" excuse of our distinguished Governor. But is it as editor or Senator that Mr. Butler whacks at the railroads for giving passes? The presumption is that when he enters his sanctum he divests himself of his Senatorial toga, and also takes off the coat that contains the pocketful of passes and slashes away at the naughty railroads for attempting to corrupt people by bribing them with pasteboard favors good for deadhead rides. But when he travels he goes in his dual character as editor and Senator. But this is all too thin. It is a subterfuge no more creditable to Mr. Butler than the Governor's immoral and ridiculous plea was to him, nor so much, for that had in it a devil-may care indifference to the proprieties that challenged admiration for its very audacity. It may be incidentally remarked that of all the Governor's and the Senator's confreres who have been accused of accepting free passes, there isn't one of them that has not tried to sneak out of it on the pretence that the passes were given to them not because of the official positions they hold but for some other trumped up reason, by which they whip the devil around the stump and try to evade the responsibility of being virtually violators of the law.

The New York Sun, which took the defeat of its man Tracy very hard, hasn't yet quite recovered from the shock, although it is recovering its breath, and talking some pretty good, hard sense from its standpoint. Referring to the Democratic victory in Kentucky, it says:

"Kentucky having been carried by the Democratic party on the Chicago platform, the Courier-Journal of Louisville, whose brilliant fight against the Bryanite transformation of the Democratic party will long be remembered, yesterday surrendered and announced that it is again to be Democratic, with a little dissent, perhaps, and a little remonstrance against the party decrees, but opposition, never! The National Democratic party of so-called Gold Democrats will soon lose even its name.

"The Republican party, the party of public credit and conservatism, and the Democratic party, of radicalism and revolution whose limits are unforeseen and unforeseeable, divide all serious political sentiment in the United States. Differences of opinion must be expressed through one or the other of these organizations, and the debates of other parties, or candidates without parties, will rank in public importance with the prize speaking in colleges and schools. A man must be a Republican or a Democrat; and a Democrat is a Bryanite.

"Mugwumps, cuckoos, stuffed prophets, unifying forces and their like, take notice!"

In another editorial discussing the result of the election in New York, city and State, it exclaims:

"That is the marvellous result of the election in the great American capital, the center of American wealth and civilization and the second city of the world, and it is no wonder that Bryan and the Bryanites rejoice exceedingly, deeming that their general triumph in 1900 is now assured. They went into 'the enemy's country' and took complete possession of it; while the appointed defenders of the citadel were drunk with Lowism. Bryanism rushed in and carried it by a carefully preconcerted assault.

"What does all this portend? It portends a united Bryanite Democratic party in 1900, with the delegation from the great and pivotal Empire State of New York supporting the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, against which it stood so solidly in 1896. It means the unconditional surrender of the New York Democracy to Bryanism."

There are thousands of people who are not mad, as the Sun is, who will heartily agree with its conclusions in both of these extracts.

* * *

General Blanco starts out much better as a proclamation issuer than his predecessor (Weyler) did, and if he be actuated by the spirit that pervades his first proclamation he will make the task of Spain in Cuba a much less difficult one, and may remove from her much of the odium brought upon her by Weyler's brutality and bungling. Whether the policy he foreshadows in this proclamation will be followed up remains to be seen, but if it is it can not fail to weaken the opposition to Spain, for while there doubtless are thousands of fighters in Cuba who will be satisfied with nothing short of independence there are also thousands who now sympathize with those who would gladly see the horrid war ended if they could have any assurance of fair treatment and respectable government hereafter. Spain's change of policy may not be so much a matter of choice as of necessity, for while the war is a fearful ordeal for the Cubans it is a terrible strain on Spain, both in the matter of men and money, and she is quite as anxious to see it ended as the Cubans are. If Gen. Blanco, with the spirit that seems to actuate him in thus holding out the olive branch, can persuade them that Spain is honest and means to give better government to Cuba, the main obstacle in the way of pacification will be removed, but the Cubans have little confidence in Spanish promises and thus far have had little reason to have any.

It is estimated that fully 300,000 lives have been lost in Cuba since the war began. Of these 150,000 were Cubans, men who died in battle or from wounds, and women and children who died from the results of Weyler's brutality. Of the 250,000 soldiers sent out by Spain only 70,000 remain, the remainder having fallen victims to disease or to the Cuban rifle and machete. And yet the war goes on, with the end no nearer in sight than ever, without intervention of some nation friendly to the struggles for freedom.

The man was in Weldon the night before. He got drunk and walked into the sitting room of the hotel, and called for a ticket to Rocky Mount. The last seen of him he was under the shed. CURRENT COMMENT

—— If Senator Wolcott take the floor for a speech on his European experience with the bimetallic experiment, it will crowd the floor and galleries. —— It is an interesting fact that Hill's vote for Governor in 1894 in Greater New York was less than one thousand more than Van Wyck's for Mayor. In Brooklyn the Tammany candidate for Mayor gained as much as he lost in New York and Queens. This looks like organization strength. —New York Commercial Advertiser, Rep.

—— Senator Marion Butler, of North Carolina, is contending violently against the movement for his retirement from the Populist throne. He is hurling his accusations right and left, but the sharp machete which the Hon. —— While the President and several of his Secretaries have been looking after New York and Ohio, they have been neglecting Pan-America; and the net result of it all is that while the Administration has failed to make a good job of saving this country, it has permitted Prosperity to get away to another and to sprout an extra fine wheat crop in the fields of Argentina. —Philadelphia Record, Dem.

MY PRAYER.

M. R. W.

Make me a blessing, Lord, to those I love,
To smooth and brighten their oft rugged way.
Give me thy blessed comfort from above
That I may comfort others day by day.

Make me a blessing, Lord, to those I meet,
Even amid the hurrying, eager throng;
Give me thy Spirit, ever calm and sweet,
Thy light to shine tho' me, both clear and strong.

I am so weak I hardly dare to pray,
That my small light may bless yet farther still;
That weary ones, the lone, the far-away,
Ev'n I may help to show thy love and will.

And yet I know the weak are strong in thee,
And knowing this I would in thy dear name,
The greatest of all blessings that can be,
This precious gift, this crown of blessings, claim—

To be a blessing in this world of woe,
"And thou shalt be a blessing"—
'twas thy word.
This is the greatest gift, thou canst bestow;
Give it, I pray, to me, even me, Oh Lord.

WOMEN AS COLLECTORS.

Curious Watches to Be Seen In Boudoirs of Society.

The contents of the charming little French cabinets of Vernis-Martin, which make the beauty spot in the boudoirs or the morning rooms of several of New York's most prominent social leaders, give evidence of their fair owners' tastes as collectors of articles curious, sometimes historic, always expensive.

Mrs. Bradley Martin's collection of curious watches is numerous and fabulously expensive. Among its gems is a diamond coronet, with a watch pendant, which was at one time the property of royalty. Another old piece is a gold enameled apricot, which on examination proves to be a watch. Miss Sallie Cooper Hewitt has a wonderful collection of expensive curios—snuffboxes, patchboxes, seals, rings and watches. The latter are mostly samples of English and French art.

Mrs. Pierpont Morgan has a collection of Louis XII watches. One case alone contains 35, all exactly alike. In another case she keeps a dozen chatelaine watches, also of the Louis XII period. The gem of the third case is an English watch of the eighteenth century, decorated with an enameled miniature.

Mrs. Peter Barlow's collection contains a watch once the property of Mme. de Montespan, also one which once belonged to Marie Antoinette. It is of blue enamel, with a wreath of pearls. Mrs. Herman Oelrichs has a rare collection of brooch and chatelaine watches, as well as some so large that they could be hung up as clocks. These watch clocks, or clock watches, are many of them exceedingly beautiful and artistic. Another ponderous timepiece is in the collection of Mrs. Johnson. It formerly belonged to Sir Joshua Reynolds, and it is said it was his constant companion up to the time of his death.

Mrs. Astor's cases contain several bracelets set with watches. All of them are heavily jeweled, but none has ever been worn by its fair owner. A dainty and beautiful conceit is the wild rose chatelaine watch which belongs to Miss Elsie Clews. The watch itself, a tiny affair, is inclosed in the petals of a rose made of enameled gold. The leaves, stem and one bud glitter with pearls, rubies and diamonds.

A notable curiosity in the collection of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt is a watch representing a pelican feeding three of its young. Another is tulip shaped, with leaves. Still another is in the form of an Egyptian harp, surmounted by a crown made of rose diamonds. She also has a watch shaped like a guitar, enameled in blue, with yellow stripes. Miss Hunter has a lizard watch glittering with emeralds and diamonds. Another is a frog of green enameled gold, with a tiny watch in its back, and eyes of glittering moonstones. —New York Herald.

The Rainbow Party.

The latest fad is the rainbow party, which derives its name from the fact that the girls wear pretty aprons of every shade and hue which their good or bad taste may suggest, all of which are left unhemmed. Every girl has a number, and two of them take charge of a box containing duplicates, which is placed near the cloakroom and from which the men, having previously bought tickets, draw a number, armed with which they set forth on a voyage of discovery to find the young lady wearing the corresponding one on her apron.

When all have found their partners, the master of the ceremonies proclaims the conditions—namely, that the young men are to set about hemming the aprons, the one acquitting himself the best gaining the prize. The girls supply the cavaliers with needles and thread, and at the call of "Time!" the fun begins with the efforts of the poor fellows to thread their needles. At the second call of "Time!" the work is handed in to the committee, which passes judgment upon it and awards the prizes, which sometimes are of great value, to the victors, after which the aprons are raffled for, and the party winds up with a dainty little supper.

Poor and Weak

Catarrh and Bronchial Trouble—Had no Appetite—Now Better in Every Way—A Delicate Child.

"Some time since I took a sudden cold and could not get rid of it. Being subject to catarrh and bronchial trouble I coughed terribly. I lost my appetite and grew poor and weak and I did not feel like work. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. In a short time the cough disappeared, I slept well, had a good appetite and I was better in every way. Last spring I was not feeling well, I had no appetite and no strength. I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon felt more like work. My little nephew was a delicate child and had a humor which troubled him so he could not rest at night. He has taken a few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and now he has a good appetite and is able to sleep." MISS ABBIE J. FREEMAN, South Duxbury, Mass.

As It Looked to Him.

People who have seen cottonwood lumber warp when it came from the saw can appreciate a story Gene Ware tells about the first sawmill erected at Fort Scott. After the first day's sawing the owner of the mill came down from town, where he had been celebrating the "opening" with the boys. He looked over the crooked boards scattered about the yard for a moment and then inquired with drunken gravity:

"Boysh (hic), has that lumber been measured yet?"

"It has not," replied the foreman of the mill.

"Well, when it gets still, take a (hic) corkscrew and measure it."—Kansas City Journal.

The word "fie" or its equivalent in sound exists in all languages, and in every one is expressive of disgust. In the Icelandic the word "pfui" means putridity.

The entire trade of this country with Samoa in 1894 was less than $750,000.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 6.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points, due to a better class of English cable news than had been expected. Immediately following the first call, however, prices began to weaken; liquidation set in because outside speculative interest was slack and gave promise of no support for the large movement. Selling was arrested by predictions of frost in the cotton belt, particularly in the Mississippi valley. The market was finally quiet and steady at a net advance of one point to a net decline of 2 points, with sales of 66,100 bales.

Color Run Mad.

Are we not losing any innate perception of grace of line and harmony of coloring that we may once have possessed through our weak minded submission to chameleon coated Dame Fashion, who plays pranks that at times are positively sardonic? I saw a woman the other day in a bonnet that boasted three shades of pink, two of magenta, four of green, three of yellow and a fine blob of scarlet like a "little round button at top." And at first I thought she looked nice! It took time to realize that each tint clashed with the other tint, so decadent had become my taste in millinery.—Woman.

IF ONLY THE DREAM ABIDE.

If the things of earth must pass
Like the dews upon the grass,
Like the mists that break and run
At the forward sweep of the sun,
I shall be satisfied
If only the dreams abide.

Nay—I would not be shorn
Of gold from the mines of morn.
I would not be bereft
Of the last blue flower in the cleft,
Of the haze that haunts the hills,
Of the moon that the midnight fills.
Still would I know the grace
On love's uplifted face
And the slow, sweet joy dawn there
Under the dusk of her hair.

I pray thee spare me, fate,
The woeful, wearying weight
Of a heart that feels no pain
At the sob of the autumn rain,
And takes no breath of glee
From the organ surge of the sea—
O mind where memory broods
Over songless solitudes.
I shall be satisfied
If only the dreams abide.

BABOON SOLDIERS.

They Carry on Warfare by Means of Organized Bands.

Man is not the only animal who carries on his warfare by means of organized bands and calls in the forces of nature to assist him. The German naturalist and traveler Brehm witnessed in Central Africa fights that were conducted in as orderly a manner as if the warriors had been really men instead of only somewhat like them in form.

The actors in the play were baboons, and their enemies were in one case the traveler's dogs, though the baboons were ready to fight with any creature that attacked them, man only excepted, and he owed his exemption solely to the fact that the baboons could not often gain a point of vantage.

The naturalist himself was once stoned out of a pass in a very few minutes by these creatures, who sprang upon ledges and stones, looked down for a few moments on the valley, growling, snarling and screaming, and then began to roll down stones with so much vigor and adroitness that the intruders took to flight. The baboons evidently knew the value of co-operation, for the naturalist saw two of them combine their efforts in order to set a particularly heavy stone rolling. One monkey, bent on making the most of his missile, was seen to carry a stone up a tree that he might hurl it with greater effect.

On the occasion when the dogs attacked the baboons the baboons were crossing a valley, and, as usual during a march, the females and young were in the center, the males heading the column and bringing up the rear. As the dogs rushed upon them only the females took to flight.

The males turned and faced the enemy, growling, beating the ground with their hands and opening their mouths wide so as to show their glittering teeth. They looked so fierce and malicious that the dogs—Arab greyhounds, accustomed to fight successfully with hyenas and other beasts of prey—shrank back. By the time they were encouraged to renew the attack the whole herd had made its way, covered by the rear guard, to the rocks, one 6-months-old monkey alone excepted.

This little monkey sat on a rock, surrounded by the dogs, but he was not long left in his perilous position. An old baboon stepped from a cliff near by, advanced toward the dogs, keeping them in check by threatening gestures and sounds, picked up the baby monkey and carried it to a place of safety on the cliff, while the whole crowd of baboons watched the act of heroism and shouted their battlecry.—Youth's Companion.

GREELEY'S WRITING.

A Pretty Tough Story About the Eccentric Old Editor's Chirography.

There was only one printer who could read Greeley's writing well enough to put it in type. He used to boast that he could read the great editor's wondrous scrawl a mile away.

One night the boys in The Tribune composing room "put up a job" on the old man. They took two roosters, made them walk around on a newly inked form and then run all over ten sheets of copy paper.

The foreman wrote over it in Greeley's well known scrawl, "The Plain Duty of Congress" and put it on old man Lawton's hook. I think his name was Lawton, but if it was not it does not matter much.

The old printer picked it up, swore a little, remarked that they had to shove the stuff on the old man, as usual, adjusted his spectacles and began sticking type.

The other printers watched him for a few minutes, but beyond a muttered oath or two he gave no sign. Lawton went on setting type until about half way through the "copy."

Then he was stuck.

He took the copy over to the foreman and asked:

"Jack, what is that word?"

"I don't know," replied the foreman. "You know I never could read the stuff."

Lawton took the sheet down to Greeley and pointed out to him a particularly awful scrawl of the rooster's foot, asking what word that was.

Greeley looked at it a moment and replied, with a frown:

"'Unconstitutional,' of course."

Lawton went back to the composing room and finished his task with the utmost sang froid.

The old man never knew how the "copy" was produced.—Journal of Education.

Not His Error.

"I wish to say to the congregation," said a country clergyman lately, "that the pulpit is not responsible for the error of the printer on the tickets for the concert in the Sunday school room. The concert is for the benefit of the arch fund, not the arch fiend."—Pick Me Up.

THE BLUFF FAILED.

BUT IT BROUGHT ABOUT THE DESIRED RESULT AT LAST.

The College Society Chapter That Was In Bad Repute—A Medal That Contained an Inscription—Poker and Bottled Refreshments.

"It frequently happens," said a college graduate, "that different chapters of the same Greek letter fraternity, situated at different colleges, develop different characteristics. All of these societies, I think, are organized to encourage literary pursuits. I mean that's what the constitutions say. As a matter of fact, the literary element is rather lost sight of in most cases in the stress of having a jolly good time. When convention time comes round, however, the chapters that have maintained their literary quality come to the fore, and the others have to put up a bluff by sending as delegates men who have high standing as scholars or else take a very back seat.

"The chapter to which I belonged was located at a country college, and in some way or other it had acquired a reputation in the fraternity of being essentially nonliterary, and, in fact, rather sporty in character. This was so much the case that in my junior year there was a movement on foot to expel or suspend our chapter from the fraternity. We weren't very strong in high stand men and couldn't even scare up two to go as delegates to the convention. Another man and myself were finally selected for this function as the most unsophisticated looking members of the chapter.

"As usual in such cases, a special train was made up to start from the westernmost chapter and to pick up as many of the other delegations as could be arranged on its way to the convention city. We were among the more remote chapters, and when we boarded the train there was only one other delegation on board, composed of three members. We sighed when we saw big boxes of bottled beer in the freight car and reflected on the elaborate instructions we had received from our constituents. We were primed for the occasion. My companion, Forbes, had a classical volume in each side pocket of his coat and there were ink stains on his fingers. I had borrowed from a classmate a medal given for scholarship, and this I had rather ostentatiously hung on my watch chain.

"We soon made the acquaintance of the other three delegates and joined them in their stateroom. Before long they proposed a game of poker, and one of them produced a pack of cards. Forbes said he didn't play, retired to a corner, pulled out a copy of Gladstone's 'Landmarks of Homeric Study' and after gazing thoughtfully out of the window for a moment or two apparently became absorbed in it. I admired his conception of the part, but I couldn't bring myself to break up the game, and that's what it meant, for everybody knows there's no fun in three handed poker. Besides, there were only three delegates on the train to witness my fall. I said I didn't play, but had seen the game and thought it looked interesting. I was willing to learn.

"When we got started, there was a demand for a buck, and I unhitched the scholarship medal and dropped it into the pot as a good means of calling attention to it. Everything went on swimmingly for awhile. I had outrageous luck and won pot after pot, so they were confirmed in the idea that I was a beginner. After awhile one of the other delegates got away with a jack pot, and while he was waiting for the cards to be dealt he picked up the medal and glanced carelessly at the obverse side. I hadn't examined it particularly, but I found out afterward that it bore this neat inscription: 'Garrett J. Gardner, Weymouth University, Class of '87.'

"The delegate started and looked at me with a glance that was first mystified and then suspicious.

"'I beg your pardon, Brother Gardner,' he said, with a touch of sarcasm. 'I thought you said your name was Hawkins, and we've all been calling you that right along.'

"There was a smothered guffaw from behind the 'Landmarks of Homeric Study,' and I saw the jig was up. We made a clean breast of it, and Forbes sat into the game, making it five handed, which, of course, is the ideal game. We didn't lose any time sending forward for a consignment of that bottled beer, and the floor was strewn with dead Indians when the train filled up with other delegates, and they crowded around to watch the game.

"Our elaborate bluff hadn't worked, and the convention opened with our chapter in just as bad odor as before, but we had made stanch supporters of the three delegates and some other kindly spirits who had joined us on the train. They all went to work like beavers, and when our case was taken up in the convention we had a good working majority which sustained our charter with a whoop."—New York Sun.

Must Have Been Very Bad.

In this day of slang and slipshod English it is quite refreshing to find one home in which our mother tongue is appreciated and sins against its purity duly resented.

That there is at least one such was made evident in a quarrel which took place in a literary household between the two youngest inmates—a quarrel, like most childish differences, soon over, but fierce while it lasted.

When his wrath had reached its height, the small son of the house, quivering with anger, sought for language to denounce his sister, who had been the aggressor.

"You bad," he burst forth, stamping a stubby shoe; "you bad, you bad"—Words failed him. Then with a flash of truly literary inspiration he concluded, "You bad grammar, you!"—Youth's Companion.

A Serious Outlook.

"What I want," said the manager, "is a joyous burlesque."

"Well," replied the scribe, "I'll do what I can. But I give you fair warning you're killing the goose that lays the golden egg. If everybody keeps on writing burlesques, in a short time there won't be anything serious for people to make fun of."—Washington Star.

Social Discontent.

"Doesn't it make you sad when you think of the poor?"

"Why, no, not particularly. It makes me mad, though, when I think of the rich."—Indianapolis Journal.

NO BACKSHEESH.

Arabs Will Not Accept Any Gifts From Their Desert Guests.

R. Talbot Kelly, an English artist who has lived long among the Arabs, writes and illustrates a paper entitled "In the Desert With the Bedouin," which appears in The Century. In discussing Arabian hospitality, Mr. Kelly says: I had not much time for quiet observation, as one by one all the head men of the tribe called to pay their respects to the "stranger within their gates." Taking off his shoes at the entrance, each one advanced with many salaams and, kissing my hand, uttered the single word, "Mahubbah" ("Welcome"). They then seated themselves in a long row at the other side of the tent, discussing me in undertones. No one spoke to me unaddressed, and even the sheik himself, whose guest I was, would not sit on the carpet beside me uninvited. Literally, while the guest of the Bedouin, your tent is sacred, and all the tribe are your willing servants, and, though I have repeatedly paid comparatively long visits to them, I have never yet succeeded in pressing a gift upon my host.

I remember asking the sheik Saoui el Tahoui, chief of the Hanaardi Arabs, if he knew any of the pyramid Arabs at Gizeh. He replied, spitting upon the ground, "They are not Bedouins; they take backsheesh," thereby expressing his contempt for mercenary service. On another occasion, while living with the Nephaarta, the sheik Mansour Abu Nasrullah had attached to me a young Arab whose special duty it was to attend to my various wants while painting. At the end of the month I tried to induce him to accept a sovereign as backsheesh. Looking much alarmed, he exclaimed: "Oh, my master, I cannot! It is not allowed. The sheik would kill me if he knew I had accepted a gift." And all my arguments failed to persuade him to take the tip.

WATCHFUL CARE.

There is a sanctity about expectant motherhood that all the world reverences. The sacred mothers of Biblical times received Divine guidance during the season of their trials, and in modern days the encouragement of sympathy and the wisdom of science combine to lessen the pains and dangers of maternity. Civilization has rendered the female physique less elastic than nature requires and the invariable agonies and frequent ruptures, incident to childbirth, endangering the lives of both mother and infant, are the result. Such difficulties cannot be overcome by internal medicines. Direct action is required upon the parts involved. This can only be secured by the application of a penetrating liniment to the cords and muscles subjected to severest strain. Such a liniment is "Mother's Friend," made by the Bradfield Regulator Company, the noted specialists in the manufacture of remedies for women.

"MOTHER'S FRIEND" NEVER FAILS.

JOHN G. POLHILL, a leading druggist of Macon, Ga., writes:

I have sold a quantity of "Mother's Friend," and have never known an instance where it failed to produce the good results claimed for it. I know one lady, the mother of three children, who suffered greatly in the birth of each; she obtained a bottle of me before her fourth confinement, and was relieved quickly. All agree that their labor was shorter and less painful.

"Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists or sent by express on receipt of one dollar. Write for booklet, "Before Baby is Born," free to any woman on application.

SUNDAY MORNING, NOV. 7, 1897

THE COMPETITOR PRISONERS.

Trial by Court Martial to Begin Monday in Havana—May Be Pardoned If Sentenced to Death or Imprisonment.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, November 6.—A telegram came to the State Department today from United States Acting Consul General Springer, at Havana, as follows:

"Trial by court martial of the Competitor prisoners will be held Monday next. Will attend."

There are five of these prisoners, namely: Alfred Laborde, William Gildea, Oaa Melton, Charles Barnett and William Leavitt. They were arrested on the Competitor April 25th, 1896, on a charge of landing arms for the insurgents, and have been held in close confinement ever since. May 8th, 1896, they were tried by a naval court martial and sentenced to death. Only the most energetic action by the United States Government prevented the immediate execution of this sentence, and after negotiations direct with Madrid (Weyler having proved unrelenting) an order was issued for a new trial, the Madrid judicial reviewing authorities having found the proceedings informal.

The news now coming that they are to be tried by court martial again is not reassuring, as it amounts to an insistance by the Spanish upon their contention, that if carried out will, it is expected, lead to the re-imposition of the death penalty, though clemency may be extended by Gen. Blanco.

HAVANA, November 6.—It is semi-officially asserted here that if the crew of the American schooner Competitor, whose trial will again begin on Monday next before a naval court martial, are sentenced to death or imprisonment, they will be pardoned by the Government at Madrid.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT.

The Week Characterized by Revival of Currency Transfers to the South.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 6.—The Financier says: The bank statement for the current week is of a favorable character, no less than thirty-eight of the sixty-five clearing house institutions having participated in the loan expansion of $6,885,800 reported. It is true that the changes of three of the larger banks account for $4,800,000 of the total increase, but the smaller commercial institutions figure more prominently in the aggregate than for some time past. This offset is an encouraging sign. The week was characterized by the revival of currency transfers to the South, New Orleans calling for a large portion of the shipments on account of the cotton and sugar movement. St. Louis has been handling a great deal of the money that usually goes to the former city, and the revival of business at New Orleans and at the centres tributary to it is regarded as encouraging on all sides. It is noteworthy that the National Park Bank, one of the institutions most prominently connected with Southern interests, made a large increase in these loans last week. The trend of money, however, is now largely in the direction of New York, domestic exchange having hardened perceptibly at most interior cities. The local banks are gaining in cash in consequence.

It is rather remarkable that the loans of the banks are still within $5,000,000 of the high point reached September 18th. In the same time deposits have decreased $10,000,000, and cash no less than $15,000,000.

HER CARGO ABLAZE.

Steamer Gloucester Arrives at Norfolk After an Exciting Run.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, November 6.—The Merchants and Miners steamer Gloucester arrived about 5 o'clock this morning, after an exciting sixty mile run with part of her cargo ablaze.

The fire was first discovered about 1 o'clock this morning, when the ship was off Hog island, the smoke of burning excelsior being detected by those in the engine room. An investigation was immediately made and the fire was discovered in the hold of the vessel under the forward hatch, deep down among innumerable bales of excelsior and leather. It was blazing fiercely and filling the hold with smoke.

The instant it was discovered that the flames could not be extinguished by ordinary means, Captain Howes ordered steam turned on the cargo and had the ship's speed increased to her capacity. There were thirty-one passengers aboard, but such coolness and caution was exercised by the captain and his officers that not one of them knew there was anything the matter until they reached Norfolk, and some of them do not know even now.

About 8 o'clock, after it was found that the fire was too stubborn to be handled successfully by the crew, the Norfolk fire department was notified and by 11 o'clock Chief Ryan had put the flames out, using six tanks of the chemical engine to do it. It is impossible to state the loss, but it will probably be large, as much valuable leather and many cases of shoes were ruined, to say nothing of the quantity of excelsior.

MARYLAND ELECTION.

Irregularities Discovered That May Affect the Result in Several Counties.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BALTIMORE, November 6.—The board of supervisors of election of Somerset county met to-day and found that 495 ballots lacked the signature of the judges, as required by law. The board adjourned until Monday, when Attorney General Clabaugh is expected to be present. There is a conflict in the law, one section declaring that no ballot shall be counted which lacks the signature of a judge, while another section states that such ballots shall be counted. It will probably be taken to the courts by the Democrats.

The Attorney General says on this point: "It is impossible to say in advance of the decision of the question by the courts, just how it will be construed. If the courts declare these ballots illegal it may affect the result in several counties."

OHIO'S LEGISLATURE.

Republicans Claim a Majority of Five on Joint Ballot if No Further Changes Are Made.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

COLUMBUS, November 6.—The only important development in the status of the next General Assembly to-day was the decision in the Wood county case, which only more removes that county from the doubtful list to the Republican column. Chairman Nash does not believe the case will be appealed by the Democrats, since the law is so plain. There was some talk of an injunction against the supervisors, but it was not confirmed. Should no further changes be made the Republicans will have five on joint ballot as claimed by Chairman Nash.

NEWS FROM ABROAD.

THE AFRICAN SITUATION GROWS WORSE INSTEAD OF BETTER.

Fears That Active Hostilities Between French and British Troops Cannot Long be Avoided—The Cuban Question—Labor Troubles in England—Pelagic Sealing—The War in India.

[Copyright 1897 by the Associated Press.

LONDON, November 6.—The African situation grows worse instead of better. The recent narrow escape from a collision between French and British troops in the Lagos hinterland gives rise to fears that active hostilities cannot long be avoided, and the press is literally vindictive against the ministry for what it terms its hesitating policy both here and in the Soudan.

The Spectator to-day repeats its arguments of last week on the subject of Cuba, and comes to the conclusion that when President McKinley gives his decision it will be for war.

Several of the English newspapers today severely criticise the action of Hannis Taylor, the former Minister of the United States to Spain, in publishing his views of the Cuban question in American magazines. The Pall Mall Gazette says that "he is getting even with President McKinley because he did not keep him at Madrid." Continuing, the Pall Mall Gazette remarks: "Mr. Taylor finds no difficulty in forgetting that all the information he has seen fit to divulge was obtained in his official character and therefore under the seal of secrecy."

While an early conclusion of the engineering disputes is doubtful, there is scarcely room to doubt that the employers will finally win, for the resources of the employes are rapidly becoming exhausted. In order to win, the strikers must be aided by the public to the amount of $50,000 weekly.

In addition to the engineering strike, with threatened strikes in the cotton trade and among the railroad employes, the muddle in the labor world is growing worse.

The recent police records of the East end of London read like the old days of Deadwood, Dakota. Revolver shootings have occurred almost daily, and on Wednesday there were no less than four committals for trial for crimes of that description. The Royal Free Hospital recently had ten patients suffering from bullet wounds. In short, the possession of revolvers is now so common in the East end that residents of that district appeal daily to the magistrates and police for the adoption of measures to put an end to lawlessness.

The British officials regard the prompt agreement arrived at between the United States, Russia and Japan, providing for a temporary suspension of pelagic sealing, as a vindication of their refusal to enter into the conference, and as a demonstration of their contention that an understanding existed between the three countries. It is not likely that Great Britain will consent to stop sealing. Her Majesty's Government confidently expects a settlement of the question by the United States purchasing the Canadian interests.

In spite of the statement made by Mr. Balfour, the First Lord of the Treasury, in his speech at Norwich on Thursday evening that the government had no desire of aggression on the northwest frontier of India, but sought only to maintain the present frontier, there is little doubt that the trial made by the punitive expeditions now engaged with the tribesmen will be followed by the usual piece of grab. The military despots of India demand and public opinion in Great Britain manifestly favors a permanent military occupation of the territory practically conquered by the British troops.

It develops that the estate of Mrs. Margaret Oliphant, the author, who died on June 25th, is under $35,000. It was left to her adopted daughter.

A special dispatch from Shanghai received to day says that the German minister to China and the captain of the German gunboat Cormeranth have been attacked by a mob at Wu-Chang, a large city in the province of Hoope, on the Yang Tsek Kiang river. The rioters are also reported to have stoned the German flag, and to have insulted the minister. The latter, the dispatch concludes, has demanded the punishment of the offenders.

PARIS, November 6.—A large mass meeting was held in this city this evening in support of the British engineering strike, at which resolutions were adopted assuring the strikers of the moral and financial support of the French brethren. There was also passed a resolution demanding the adoption of an eight-hour working day. Several members of the Chamber of Deputies addressed the meeting.

PITTSBURG, PA., November 6.—Five rather serious accidents happened in foot ball games in and near this city today. In the Greensburg-Duquesne Athletic and Country Club game, Floyd Rose, Duquesne's quarter back, had his shoulder dislocated and will play no more this season. Robert Grange, of the Bellfield Athletic team, suffered concussion of the brain and is now lying in a precarious condition. William Walker, of the Pittsburg College team, had his right clavicle fractured. George Lazelle, of the New Haven, Pa., eleven, had his collar bone broken, and Bert Ritchie was hurt internally and had to be carried from the field; probably a fatal case.

CHRISTIAN CRUSADERS.

A Band of Seven Will Start Monday for the Klondike Gold Fields.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 6.—A farewell reception was tendered to-night at the bowery mission to a band of seven Christian crusaders who intend to start Monday morning for the Klondike gold fields to establish among the miners a permanent mission. Under the leadership of Alexander Desota, who originated the idea, the missionary band will travel on foot all the way from this city to Denver, passing en route through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. Gospel services will be held along the route.

A BIG IMPROVEMENT.

IN THE YELLOW FEVER SITUATION AT NEW ORLEANS.

Falling Off in Number of New Cases at Mobile—Many Recoveries—Backbone of the Plague Broken—Business Improving—Removal of Quarantine Restrictions.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., November 6.—The official report of the Board of health for to-day gives three new cases and no deaths from yellow fever.

MEMPHIS, TENN., November 6.—One case of fever and no deaths is the record for to-day for this city.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., November 6.—The Board of Health reports three new cases of yellow fever; No deaths. Total cases to date 197; deaths 11.

MOBILE, ALA., November 6.—The number of cases fell off one-half the usual average to-day, numbering only four. There was one death.

Three cases of yellow fever are reported in Springhill, in the neighborhood of the city.

The Mobile Board of Health removed quarantine restrictions to day against freight of all kinds except household goods from infected points.

NEW ORLEANS, November 6.—There is a big improvement in the yellow fever situation since yesterday. The number of new cases is comparatively small and the record of fatalities is considerably lighter. Many recoveries from the disease were reported at the office of the Board of Health to-day and the people are convinced the backbone of the fever has been broken, and in a short time the plague will be exterminated altogether. Business is improving. There were five deaths reported.

NEW ORLEANS, November 6.—The Board of Health makes the following report: Cases of yellow fever to day, 28; deaths to day, 5; total cases of yellow fever to date, 1,729; total deaths from yellow fever to date, 238; total cases absolutely recovered, 916; total cases under treatment, 585.

AUTONOMY NOT OFFERED.

Marshal Blanco Will Establish Political Reforms in Cuba and Nothing More.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, via KEY WEST, November 6.—Recent developments tend to confirm previous announcements relative to the non-establishment of autonomy in Cuba. The Government through Marshal Blanco, desires to make use of the supposed influence of the Autonomists with the Cubans by giving the Autonomists official positions, but no formal overtures of autonomy have been made. Some of the morning papers, like El Commercio, assert that the Sagasta Government will not dare to inaugurate autonomy in Cuba, adding that Marshal Blanco has made no promise whatever in this direction and will establish political reforms and nothing more.

MADRID, November 6.—The cabinet has approved measures for the giving to the inhabitants of the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico the same constitutional rights as are enjoyed by Spaniards, in the bestowal of the right of suffrage upon all who have attained the age of 25 years, and for the same census basis in municipal, provincial and parliamentary elections. The chambers of the islands will be permitted to modify the scheme if they shall deem it advisable.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Affecting Organized Labor of All Classes Working Under Contract Agreements.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

LITTLE ROCK, November 6.—The Supreme Court of Arkansas to day handed down a decision which is of the greatest interest to the public in general, as well as to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in particular:

It is well-known that the locomotive engineers are all employed under contract by which seniority of service gives priority of right to employment, so that when slackness of business demands that one or more engineers shall be discharged, the last engineer employed shall be the first dismissed. One of the senior engineers having been discharged, he brought suit on the ground that he was discharged without cause and in violation of his contract of employment. It was conceded that his contract gave him the right to quit at pleasure, and the court denied his right to recover on the ground that no contract can be valid that gives only one party thereto the right to terminate it. The court holds that the right to rescind or terminate a contract must be mutual. The decision is far-reaching, affecting, as it does, organized labor of all classes, working under such contract.

OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION.

A Delegation of Native Hawaiians to Arrive in Washington About December First.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, November 6.—Word has been received here that the delegation of native Hawaiians who will come here to oppose annexation is made up of Prince David Kawanakoa, James K. Kaulia, David Kalauokalni and J. M. Kaneakua. The delegation is to arrive at Washington about December 1st. Mr. Kaulia will act as official chairman. He will bring with him the resolutions adopted at a mass meeting of natives, the essential feature being opposition to annexation. The delegation will not urge the restoration of the former Queen or any other representative of royalty, but will confine their efforts to having the present status of Hawaii as a republic maintained.

TROOPS ORDERED OUT

To Prevent the Lynching of a Negro Who Assaulted a Little White Girl.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

MOBILE, Ala., November 6.—A special to the Register from Eutaw, Ala., says: The negro who raped a little white girl near Reform, Pickens county, Ala., a few days ago, was brought here and lodged in the Green county jail for safe keeping a couple of days ago. To-day it was reported here that a mob was coming from Pickens county to-night to take the negro from the jail and lynch him. Sheriff Eastman promptly wired the Governor to order out the Eufaula detachment of the Warrior Guards to guard the jail, and the Governor telegraphed at once to Capt. Chas. W. Dunlap to call out the Guards. They are now on duty around the jail, and there is no fear of an attack at this hour.

The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: Surplus reserve, decrease $8,090 565; loans, increase $6,885,800; specie, increase $564,700; legal tenders, decrease $1,904,800; deposits, increase $7,008,900; circulation decrease $21,800. The banks now hold $91,181,225 in excess of the requirements of the 25 per cent. rule.

Russell and Butler's Guns Spiked—Otho Wilson Enjoys the Exposure—Chrysanthemum Snow—New Cars for the S. A. L.—Yellow Fever Refugees.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., November 6.

The Seaboard Air Line will construct 450 cars at once, there being demand for them. The contract for their construction will be let to the lowest bidder.

Russell's and Butler's guns have been spiked. The fact that these two worthies accept and use free passes produced a smile all over the State. Since Russell's excuse fell so flat, it is likely that Butler will profit by his experience and lay low. Otho Wilson is having his inning now. No one enjoys the exposure of Russell and Butler more than he.

A chrysanthemum show, which has become an annual fad, will be held here next week.

Mrs. Maria Weathers, the wife of Mr. Romulus Weathers, who died in Montgomery, Ala., a few days since from yellow fever, has arrived in the State with her three children. Mrs. Weathers went to the home of her father, Mr. Stow, who lives in Forsyth county. The house has been quarantined for ten days. Mrs. Weathers will come to Raleigh later.

Chas. B. Hewitt, a young man employed as a timber inspector, was arrested in Norfolk, Va., yesterday on a requisition from Governor Russell. He is wanted in Onslow county, having fled the State on a suit for breach of promise. Hewitt was returned to the State yesterday.

THE PECKER MUTINEERS

Will Be Tried in the United States District Court at Norfolk—The Story of the Crime.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, VA., November 6.—The mutineers who fired the schooner Olive Pecker, of Boston, on the high seas after the captain and mate had been murdered by John Anderson, the cook, will be transferred Monday from the United States ship Lancaster, which brought them from Bahia, Brazil, to Hampton Roads, to the Norfolk city jail, where they will be confined pending trial before the United States District Court here. Judge Robert W. Hughes will probably preside at the trial, and District Attorney Wm. H. White, who will represent the Government, is now at Old Point, acquainting himself with the details of the case.

It is not known when the case will be called, but as the United States Court's recent session consumed only one day, it is not likely that Judge Hughes may order a special session to try the case.

Anderson was seen to-day by an Associated Press representative and again told the story of the crime. It did not differ materially from that given to the press yesterday, except that the deed was committed to save his own life, and he also dwelt persistently on the brutality of the captain and mate. He admitted that he killed them, but did not admit that he burned the ship with his own hands.

Juan Barrios, the Spaniard, one of the prisoners, corroborates the story of Anderson in detail, as far as he knows it. After telling of the brutal treatment of the cook by the mate and captain, Barrios, speaking of the tragedy, said that he was in his bunk trying to sleep, when he heard a noise and in a little while some one came forward and knocked on his window, saying: "Look out, boys, the cook is on deck with three revolvers." He asked the man who was giving the warning where the captain was, and he replied, "in the cabin." He then asked if any one had killed the cook, and the reply was, "No; but the cook is trying to kill the mate."

The mate was in the foresheets. Barrios hid himself between the engine room and his bunk and remained there until Anderson called for the crew to come out, saying that he was master of the vessel. He came out of his hiding-place and saw the mate lying dead on the deck, face down. Anderson was standing near with three revolvers. He made the crew throw the body overboard, which they did very unwillingly. One of them told him the mate was not dead; but the cook said he was dead enough.

The crew held a hurried sort of consultation, according to Barrios. Some of them wanted to sail the vessel to Africa and others wanted to come back to the States. Anderson would trust none of them, but made them get in the boat. Then they poured oil over the schooner. Barrios does not know who touched off the flames. He says that he was the first to give the Brazilian authorities an account of the tragedy. He was very much excited to-day and broke down several times while talking. He seems to be a craven and will probably do more swearing than all the others in order to save his own neck. His manner is in decided contrast to that of Anderson, who is as cool and nonchalant as if it were an every day affair.
